It is education that can engage women in such occupations which are beyond the realms of the house and this makes them come into the open to embrace such vocations in which their entry was restricted earlier. Thus, education should become a guiding light - for their life helping them to overcome any - hurdles, barriers and impediments being faced by them. The status of women education can't be different from those meant for education of men. Still it could be relevant to mention them give it due emphasis so far as women are concerned -
