The institute innovates the teaching-learning process using a variety of techniques in order to foster the growth of the students' diverse faculties. By holding various workshops, programmes, seminars, etc., it has occasionally made steps to foster in students not only the intellectual component but also the creativity, innovativeness, thinking skills, empathy, and life skills.

The following are two recent examples of workshops that the school has organised in which teachers and students collaborate, displaying an exceptional team effort for developing creative, innovative life skills among the students:

a) The covid-19 pandemic has wreaked huge damage on everyone's life around the globe. Due to the lockdown of all village, Cities and counties, the pandemic has also had a significant influence on the educational system. Schools and colleges were unable to hold regular classes; therefore each institution had to provide education online. Therefore, on May 26, 2021, the institution arranged "a one-day quiz competition on Buddha Purnima and 21th June 2021 International Yoga Day participation and management of Zoom meeting and Google Meet" for B.Ed. students by utilising the technologically savvy talents of the students. The resources personnel provided their peer group with a full presentation on the operation and usage of the Zoom and Google Meet Application for organising and hosting online classes under the careful supervision of all faculty member and the platforms organised by the institution. Additionally, a few chosen students received invitations to conferences, workshops, seminars, and other similar events and activities that were primarily held for teacher's educators and other professionals.

b) The institute places a lot of attention on helping potential students improve their teaching learning abilities because it is a teacher education facility. On September 29, 2021, the institute will host a "T.L.M Workshop for B.Ed students" with Mr. Aditya Prakash Singh as resource persons. In order to supplement their courses, the future instructors received hands-on practice at Teaching Learning.
